Risk Disclosure

Investments in Equities (Company Shares) : An equity or share represents an entity's or an individual's ownership in a company. It enables the holder (shareholder) to share in the profits made by that company, if any are declared, in the form of dividends. The value of equities may vary according to expected future earnings/profits as well as broader market factors. As such, a positive sentiment about a company's future prospects could lead in an increase in its share price which would result in a capital gain for its shareholders. Similarly, a negative sentiment could result in a share price decline which would translate into a capital loss for its shareholders. Shares/equities are usually considered to have the potential for the highest return of all the investment classes, but with a higher level of risk i.e. share investments have the most volatile returns over the short term. An investment in this type of asset should be viewed with a 5 to 10 year horizon.

Risk Profile : A rating based on the inherent risk (statistical measures: volatility, value at risk) of the financial instruments held in the portfolio. At the lower end of the risk spectrum are the low risk portfolios (suitable for investors with a short-term view) which typically invest in the fixed interest market with potentially lower expected returns and at the higher end of the risk spectrum are the medium-high/high risk portfolios (suitable for investors with a longer-term view) whose asset allocation are tilted towards the equity market with potentially higher expected returns.

Information ratio, is a measure of the risk-adjusted return of a portfolio. In this case, it measures the active return of the manager's portfolio divided by the amount of risk that the manager takes relative to the benchmark.

Sharpe Ratio is a measure for calculating risk-adjusted return. It is the average return earned in excess of the risk-free rate per unit of risk.

Beta is a measure of the volatility, or systematic risk, of a security or a portfolio in comparison to the market as a whole.
